SCAPE GALLERY

Corona Del Mar

SCAPE has continued its intriguing art offerings amid the challenges of 2020, most recently with a collection of intimate works reflecting the solitude and inner reflection of the quarantine months. The work on display includes photo collages by Carol Saidon, delicate drawings from Elizabeth Turk's The Air We Breathe series that are composed using ash from the Getty Fire, and paintings of flowers, butterflies, and clouds by artist Carin Gerard. "The idea of impermanence, even instability, reflects the reality of the world we live in," writes Gerard, "but hope is always at the core."
